Even an Excellent Crop Report Failed to Elate Wall Street.

THE MARKET OVERPLAYED

FAVORABLE NEWS FROM THE FARMS HAD BEEN EXPECTED.

New York, July 8 .- The lethargy of the speculation was strikingly demonstrated by the sluggish response today to the highly important government report of July 1 conditions of the cereal Evidently this was partly due to the plain prediction of the favorable character of the report which came for everal days from official state reports and from trustworthy private estiulation to anticipate the government re-cereal markets after the appearance of the report it appeared that this preliminary action had been overdone and iminary action had been overdone and the realizing movement forced prices in a direction contrary to the signification of the crop figures as a consequence. Thus it happened that prices of stocks declined and those of grains advanced on a prediction that promised a cereal crop exceeding in value any ever before produced in the country.

The fact that at Washington the senate wiped out of the bill the exemption accorded to holding companies from the corporation earnings tax, while at Louisville the attorney general in the abinet formulated a proposed measure which would, in his own language, go far towards their destruction, was far towards their destruction, taken rather ominously by financial observers Prices closed at the lowest

With one or two exceptions the prices in the retail and wholesale markets remain the same and there is a plentiful supply on all products of the farm. Hay and grain have settled down and no changes have been made in these markets since last week, when there was a general decline in prices.

Fresh fruits and vegetables are now flooding the market and the general tendency is for a lower price. New potatoes are now selling at 8 pounds for 25 cents. Watermelons changed in price and instead of selling at 50 cents and $1 each are now retailing at 3 cents a pound. Cantaloupes are off the market for a few Water cress, two for Watermelons changed in price and instead of selling at 50 cents and $1 each are now retailing at 3 cents a pound. Cantaloupes are off the market for a few days, although a supply is expected early next week. Strawberries are about gone and what few remain are rather inferior next week. Strawberries are about gone and what few remain are rather inferior stock. Utah raspberries are now plentiful.

Lemons continue with high prices and advanced 10 cents a dozen over the price quoted last week. The retail price is now 40 cents a dozen and will probably be 50 cents before another week. The whole-sale men are demanding $8 a case for lemons, which is just twice the price asked two weeks ago. Even at these high prices the fruit is scarce and hard to get. The crop this year was poor and the demand much heavier than ever before.

Fish, eggs, butter and poultry remain without change, although their prices are high for this season of the year.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

Chicago, July 8.—Additional rain in the harvest belt caused a firm opening in wheat today; prices began a shade lower to %0½c higher, compared with the previous close. The market, however, broke sharply early in the day on liberal sales of the July delivery, but soon rallied. In the fifteen minutes following the posting of the government crop report the market developed moderate firmness, the official figure on the new crop being less bearish than expected in some quarters. The feature of trade in corn was an advance of than expected in some quarters. The rea-6814 ture of trade in corn was an advance of more than 2c in July, due to active cover-ing by shorts, based, to a large extent, on a sharp bulge in cash prices.
